A Pictorial History of Arkansas by Fay Hempstead (1890) PIKE COUNTY, ARKANSAS

PIKE COUNTY

Pike County, the twenty-seventh county created, was formed November 1st, 1833, out of territory taken from the counties of Hempstead and Clark, and was named after General Zebulon Montgomery Pike, a distinguished officer of the war of 1812. The seat of justice was directed to be at the house of Paschal C. Sorrels until permanently located. An election was directed to be held for Commissioners to locate it. The Commissioners located it in 1834 at Murfreesboro.

The county of Pike is an interior southwest county. Its area is about 600 square miles.

Its surface is partly mountainous, but has much alluvial soil, rich and fertile. In the mountainous districts minerals exist and have been prospected for successfully, but not developed. The county is watered by the Little Missouri river, which runs through it. It has as yet no railroad.

The chief products of the country are corn and grain. Cotton is also raised to some extent.

There are forty-three free schools in the county, and churches at all the chief points.

The towns of the county are Murfreesboro, Antoine, Star of the West, Huddleston, Brocktown and Royston.

The town of Murfreesboro was founded in 1834. It is situated in a fertile spot on the Little Missouri river, thirteen miles from Nashville, in Howard county, which is the nearest railroad point.

In 1836, by Act of the Legislature of October 26th, Rice Stringer, Henry Brewer, and John Hughes were appointed Commissioners to lay off lots in the town of Murfreesboro, sell them, and with the proceeds build a court-house and jail.

In 1837, by Act of the Legislature, December 9th, Fontaine Stone, Robert McDonald, John Hughes, Elijah Kelley and Henry Brewer were appointed additional commissioners to sell lots in Murfreesboro, as purposed above, for the county.

The present population of the place is about 300 persons.

A weekly newspaper, called The Sentinel, is published there by J.O.A. Bush, County Clerk.

ELIJAH KELLEY

Below we copy from the Arkansas Standard a communication over the signature of Geo. W. Logan, giving a few points in the career of the venerable gentleman whose name heads this article. We reproduce it with pleasure, because it brings to The Gazette tidings that all is well with one of the friends of its youth, and because it corrects a report frequently published that Gen. Grandison D. Royston is the sole surviving member of the constitutional convention of 1836. Gen. Royston will now feel less lonesome, and be accredited with the youth he wears so well. Mr. Kelley lives, hale and healthy, the patriarch of five generations -- four of them his descendants and numbering over 200 souls -- near Murfreesboro, Pike county, where he has lived respected, honored and venerated, since 1815. We think Mr. Logan is in error in dating Mr. Kelley's birth in 1780. We believe it should be not further back than 1790. When The Gazette's eyes last beheld him -- a member of the legislature of '66 -- he was "a gray-haired happy boy" of 60, to all appearance. May the shadow of his person, example and influence remain long in the land, and may his tribe increase:

Eds. Standard: According to promise I give you and the many readers of the Standard, a few items in reference to the old men of this (Pike) county. First, and at the head of the list in many respects, stands Elijah Kelley, Sr., who was born September 14, 1780; moved with his parents to Arkansas at the age of 15 years, that is in the year 1815, (thus born in 1800) and settled with his parents on Wolf Creek, in Pike county, Arkansas, where he now resides. He is, and has been for many years a minister of the gospel in the Christian church. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1836, and helped frame the first constitution of Arkansas as a state, and has, once or more, represented this county in the legislature, of which body he was a worthy member. He is by occupation a farmer, and in the year 1882, raised two and one-half bales of cotton, and enough corn to do him this year. His children, grandchildren, great grandchildren and great-great grandchildren, number over 200, and notwithstanding his age, he is quite lively and stout.

(GEO. W. LOGAN)

Arkansas Gazette, May 10, 1883, page 2, column 2, from the Arkadelphia Southern Standard, Old Citizens of Pike County, May 5, 1883.

Old Citizens of Pike County.

Next we give the name of J.C. Roden, who was born in 1801, come to this county several years since, and settled near Gray's Ferry, on the Little Missouri, he also is a farmer, and has in the last few years paid out between a thousand and twelve hundred dollars for the farm he now lives on. He is a worthy member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, and is lively and full of honor, etc.

We have been having court to our hearts content, two weeks of circuit court, and now an adjourned term of the county court, for the benefit of tax payers, so that they can get the scrip due for services rendered during the late term of circuit court.

I will write again soon, as there are other men in this county that I want to write about.

Yours respectfully,

GEO. W. LOGAN

Murfreesboro, April 24, 1883.

Arkadelphia Southern Standard, May 5, 1883.

Old men of Pike.

EDS. STANDARD: Mr. Dempsey Hill was born in North Carolina in the year 1801, and is now in his eighty-third year. He came to Arkansas in 1845. He rides on horse back from his home into the northwest part of Pike county to Murfreesboro, a distance of twenty-five miles, attends to his business and returns home without any inconvenience, etc.

Mr. Levi Miller was born in the same state near Tar river; I don't know whether above or below the Bum. He also came to Arkansas in 1848, and is now in his eighty-third year. Mr. Miller has eighty-six grand-children. He lives in the northwest part of this, Pike county.

Both of these old men are good, honest, upright men, and no doubt will enter upon eternal life when they quit this mortal life.

Yours respectfully,

GEO. W. LOGAN

Murfreesboro, May 9, 1883.

Arkadelphia Southern Standard, May 12, 1883.

Old Men of Pike.

EDS. STANDARD: Dr. A. Biggs was born December 10, 1802. He came to Arkansas in 1850, and settled in the north part of Clark county, where the thriving little town of Amity now stands. He will have been a preacher of the gospel for fifty-six years this September next coming. He is a minister in the true sense of the word, having a clear-head and possessing noble principle, and though in his 81st year, his mind is vigorous and fresh, and he preaches with power.

Mr. J.H. Horne was born in South Carolina in the year 1793, and is now in his ninetieth year. He has a son living who is in his seventieth year. He is very feeble and will not live much longer. I learn he is, and has been for many years, a member of the Baptist church, and he has the hope that if he die, yet shall he live again.

GEO. W. LOGAN

Murfreesboro, May 28th (1883).

Old Citizens of Pike County.

EDS. STANDARD: Moses Brock, was born in Grainger (Grainger) county, Tennessee, January 17th, '83 (1803); he came to Arkansas in 1850, and settled on Saline Creek, in Pike county near the place where he now resides; he has been a member of the Missionary Baptist church over 40 years. He is not only a member, but a good and pious man, having raised a respectable family; one of his sons, John W. Brock, resides in your (Clark) county.

Brother Brock is a farmer by occupation and notwithstanding his age, he works on his farm yet. If you were to see him moving about, you would suppose him to be about 50 years old.

Next comes Major James Mansfield, who was born in Logan county, Ky., on the 4th day of July 1801, he came to Arkansas in 1833, and I suppose settled on Saline Creek, Pike County, near to Moses Brock, and there for (a) number of years he labored on his farm enjoying the fruit of his labor. Major Mansfield, as he is familiarly called, is a worthy member of the Christian or Campbellite church, and a good citizen.

Now Mr. Editors, I have given you the names of eight men, citizens of Pike county that are over 80 years old which I think, speaks well for the healthfulness of our county. There are a great many others that are very old, both men and women.

Fine rains (rains) - cotton booming - corn improving - health tolerable good - people happy - building new camp ground near to Saline Creek on the road from this place to Antoine. Camp Meeting to embrace 2nd Sabbath in September. Ye editors come up and attend the camp meeting.

Yours &c.

G.W. LOGAN

Murfreesboro, Aug. 7th 1883.

Arkadelphia Southern Standard, August 25, 1883. George W. Logan of Murfreesboro, Arkansas was the Pike County Assessor from 1874-1882.

Enclosed are four letters printed in the Arkadelphia Southern Standard in 1883 about Old Men of Pike county, written by Mr. Geo. W. Logan. I thought perhaps you might like to print them in your newsletter. There were correspondents from Wolf Creek, Caney Fork, Collier Hill, etc. which I will copy and send if you would like to use them. Some used such names as THE CARBINE, SHARP SHOOTER, RIFLE SHOT, FLYING ARTILLERY. J. F. Louis was the regular from Wolf Creek.
